Began Talk with Queensware. Feeling the need of a little of the sort of nourishment that comes in glasses, a dozen of the Batavia's husky firemen slipped ashore early this morning and sought out the saloon of Philip Heuser, on River street. They were just beginning to enjoy themselves when in rolled ning to enjoy themselves when in rolled a delegation of twelve or fifteen husky Germans from the Princess Irene. The two parties didn't speak the same tongue, but there is a universal language which is understood of all men. The opening remark was made by a German, who picked up one of those large, old-fashioned queensware cuspidores such as are still in vogue in Hoboken and with it made quite a dent in the forehead of a Weishman, aft which all present mingled togeth freely.

which all present mingled togeth freely.

For a minute or two it looked as if the Welzbmen and Irishmen would win out, because nearly every time a German made a particularly vicious lunge he stepped on his own eyelashes and tripped himself up. But at a critical moment, when victory seemed about to perch on the Irish-Welsh banner, scrne tardy Bluecher of a German arrived with reinforcements. Let every true Celt draw a veil over the subsequent proceedings.

Found Teutonia Triumphant.

It is sufficient to say that when the second riot call had gone in and all the reserves had arrived, "Die Wadot Am Rhein" was being rendered as the official air of the occasion, with "Och du Lieber Augustin," held in reserve as an encore.

As for the saloon, a stickler for grammatical purity would never have thought of referring to it, save in the past tense.

thought of reterring to the past tense.

The most seriously wounded man was the proprietor of the saloon, Phillip Heuser. He got the usual peacemaker's portion, having been stabbed four times. Three others who had their wounds dressed by surgeons at St. Mary's Hospital were Charles Benson, Weish: Michael Kehee, Irish, and Den-Two of the Germans were held for the Grand Jury, John Knitzer, whom Heuser identified as the man who had stabbed him, and Julius Bremmer, the talented cuspidor soloist aforesaid.

TELEGRAPH MEN READY TO STRIKE

Will Go Out in Chicago on Sunday, According to Plans Now Made.

CHICAGO, July 11.-The union telegraph operators employed by the West-ern Valon and Postal Telegraph companies will go on strike in this city Sunday, and it is expected the strike will extend to all parts of the country.

will extend to all parts of the country.

Strikes in several of the big cities throughout the country have been arranged to take place simultaneously with the strike here.

The refusal of General Superintendente Miller, of the Western Union, is said to have hastened the determination to strike.

A new schedule of grievances will be adopted by the union at its meeting Sunday. The new demands will include an eight-hour day, typewriters furnished by the companies, an abandonment of the silding scale and full recognition of the union.

President Small's movements in San Francisco are similar to his actions in New York when he left for the West keeping his purposes secret for several days, in fact, declaring the strike in San Francisco almost without the knowledge of the Executive Board.
